

KRYON Healing Method

presented by David Brown

Sometimes one wonders why there are certain difficulties in life, why life involves us in certain situations. The reality that one creates on the outside is just a reflection of what is on the inside. The wounds that exist from the inner child create a negative reality, and they need to be addressed. The clearer you are emotionally, the easier it is to manifest your own reality. You can manifest the reality that you want and manifest your dreams - this sometimes might feel to you like an impossible dream, but you can live the impossible dream.

Figure 1: Manifestation. Between what you dream for yourself and the manifestation of those dreams are all the wounded children sabotaging and distorting the way those dreams manifest.

Negative thoughts and emotions create a negative reality. Positive thoughts and emotions create a positive reality. Yet attempting to control your thoughts or your emotions is not the answer because you need far too much energy to suppress a particular thought or emotion. Negative thoughts and emotions indicate a wounded inner child and an unhealthy relationship between your inner parents. If you have ever wondered why you get angry at certain events, know that these feelings are triggered by events that reflect the memories of the past. The role of your inner parents is to deal with and know how to handle the child within.

Our realities have a lot to do with our inner worlds and yet some people tend to blame others and external circumstances for their problems, not focusing on the inside at all.

They don't realize that the inner world causes the outside world – directly. We need to take responsibility for our reality and for the events that occur in our lives. Instead of spending your energy trying to solve the outside world's problems and even trying to control some or other external situation, it is better to spend that energy on inner work and resolve the cause. Only then will your reality in the outside world really start to change.

In the Kryon teachings a problem is always an absence of love. Love is always the answer in any situation; for whenever you are in a dark space, love is the light that lights your way - love is the lantern that will guide your way. The journey is to return to our essence and to find out who exactly we are, and thereby become totally authentic. It is to let the love flow and to create your reality out of pure love. The more and more you heal, the more you will be able to contain the energy of love.

Through this healing method you can reconnect to Divinity. By releasing these negative energies and blockages that prevent you from knowing who you truly are. However, it is not just about releasing blockages; it is about resolving the problem that exists due to this blockage. These problems were caused by a lack or a limitation within your inner parents, and these limitations need to be resolved. If you release these energies you will find it much easier to connect to the Divine. Just allow these blockages of energy to dissolve and let the love flow.

In the end, our journey is from an unconsciousness stage into a conscious being. And spirit will bring to us all kinds of issues so we can address them and become conscious.

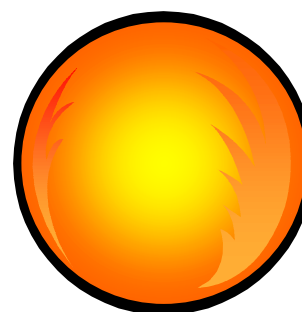

David Brown presents Kryon's healing method as a completely new way of healing based on our Solar System. It is David's mission to heal the world through powerful communication. Since 1996 when David was contacted by Kryon, David has been healing himself and others.

Mother Earth and the great central Sun connect to your heart through the base and crown.

This journey is to become the magical child that walks between heaven and Earth.

You are connected to the universe in the same way that you connect to your parents.

In 2009 David closed down his engineering business and now is working fulltime healing people around the world. In the series of Kryon channelings that David has conducted, you can feel the energy of 2012. Kryon wants us to feel these energies so we can get used to them now. It is essentially a wonderful energy of universal connectedness.

In the Kryon teachings there are three energies in humanity that need to be healed. Firstly is the Fisher King Wound, this wound interfered with the spread of Christ consciousness.

The second obstacle energies are the military energies. You cannot have a world filled with love and have the military energy present, for the military energy has no respect for negotiations. The military energy does not automatically stop within the first generation. This energy will flow through each generation until it is resolved.

The third obstacle energy is the energy of sexual abuse. An example of this is when a parent of the opposite sex disciplines a child with anger or any other negative emotion. In this case, there will be no flow of love, and it will stop the love flowing into your life. There is no love whatsoever in these three energies. They stand in your way and need to be healed.

These energies stand in your way and need to be healed. Every problem, 100% of every problem, can be solved by love. There is no love whatsoever in the energy of the Fisher King Wound, the military energies or the energies of sexual abuse.

These wounds cause other specific wounds to manifest within families. The family constellations are addressed in this healing method by bringing the family constellation into balance - like in our solar system. Everyone lacks certain energies, and during the healing processes there are shifts of energies - the letting out energies that do not serve and the letting in of good energies that do.

The three main obstacle energies that humanity carries: The Fisher King Wound, the Military Energies, the Sexual Abuse

The three main energies in humanity carry that need to be healed

1. The Fisher King Wound

This wound interfered with the spread of Christ consciousness, and therefore Christ consciousness was never adopted universally by the planet. There were some divine societies like Celtic Christianity in Great Britain and the Cathars in France whom carried this consciousness. They were direct descendents of Christ himself. However, they were controlled and eventually even exterminated. This historic wound needs to be healed in order to find the true Christ consciousness within yourself.

2. The Military Energies

You cannot have a world filled with love and have the military energy present, for the military energy has no respect for negotiations. There is no respect with the military energy. It is a controlling energy that a human uses against another human. The military energy does not automatically stop within the first generation. This energy will flow through each generation until it is resolved. The presence of military energy makes the relationship with yourself and others very difficult and even impossible on a loving level.

The three main energies that humanity carries: The Fisher King Wound, the Military Energies, the Sexual Abuse

3. The Sexual Abuse

An example of this is when a parent of the opposite sex disciplines a child with anger or any other negative emotion. In this case, there will be no flow of love, and it will stop the love flowing into your life. There is no love whatsoever in these three energies. They stand in your way and need to be healed.

Always in ones darkness there are gifts; always, always, always. Not 99% of the time but 100% of the time! The gift always comes from a place of love - from a place of heart. The darkness that lies dormant in your body is always an aspect of your inner child or your inner parents.

When you work with the inner child you are really working at the roots of your problems, and it is the same with your inner parents. Your parents were the Gods of your childhood. Your child just copied your parents, it copied their behavior, it copied the way they related, it copied exactly the emotional patterns of your parent's lives. If it doesn't look quite that way, it is because you would have done exactly the opposite on the same polarity - the inverse.

If the child is continually suppressed by the parents and not allowed to express itself, anger at not being allowed to be itself builds up. As an adult, even mild versions of similar situations will trigger its rage.

If your parents are not clear, they effectively suppress part of your true nature. You will then use an equal amount of energy to counter this and so remain trapped in survival mode. This then becomes the behaviour pattern of your inner child. As a result the energy of your inner parents and your inner child goes out into the universe to create a reality around this suppression and anger, which it keeps recreating for both parties. This means that your inner parents and your inner child will recreate these conditions throughout your life until you learn to clear the patterns.

Over thousands of years humanity has been systematically disconnected from the Divine, and now Kryon has come to assist us in the reconnection with Divinity. In this time, many energies have arrived on the planet to allow us to heal ourselves. Love is in the air, Kryon says. But it is up to us to process ourselves and clear these energetic blockages in others and to let in these wonderful energies that are coming with the ascension process of 2012.

Some of these energies are already here, and some others will still become available in time, but we need to do much inner work to let them in. Once we let the energy of love flow through us, we will create our realities out of love, because what is on the inside of us creates the reality on the outside of us.

As you release these energies you will be stepping into a new world, into a new state of being, a new state of consciousness. You will feel safer and secure, deeply connected to Father Sky and Mother Earth.

Healing the inner child, working with the inner parents, and now with the whole family constellation based on the solar system is a completely new way of healing that has been given to us by Kryon.

Several energies are given first, such as the energies of responsibility, apology, forgiveness, love, sacred embrace, sacred filter, surrender, sacred father, sacred uncles, sacred mother and sacred aunts. The magical energies needed to heal the Fisher King wound, the military energies and the energies of sexual abuse, and many other negative energies too.

The latest and very powerful energy that Kryon has given to the planet is the energy of 10-10-10, which is the reconnection energy (It was given on October 10th of 2010 at 10:10 a.m., during a Kryon's workshop in Sydney – Australia).

During the healing sessions, these energies are passed to you, your father, the issue at hand, your mother, grandparents, great-grandparents, past lives, ancestors, the beginning of times, your conception, your life, and the present moment.

Figure 5: You are a reflection of the solar system, the masculine being like the Sun and the feminine like the Earth.

As you do the work on yourself - healing your inner mother, your inner father, your inner child and the whole family constellation; you will become more and more as one, you will become your authentic self. You will connect to Father Sky and Mother Earth and you will become that magical child that walks that magical path in this universe. There are many, many special gifts. And as you go on your journey into healing yourself these many gifts will be revealed in the darkness - in the unconscious. As you make conscious what is unconscious, you will reveal your gifts and this is the first stage of your journey into consciousness.

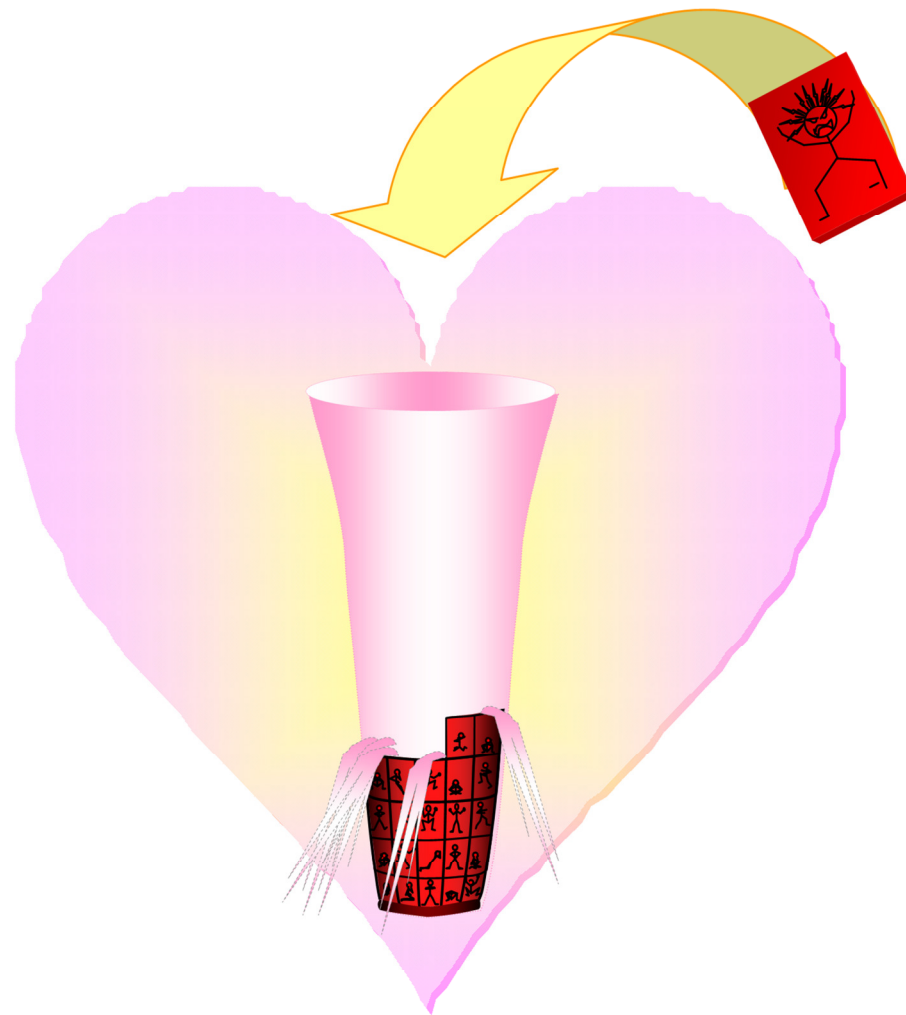

Figure 6: Building the love vase: the angry child is allowed to express its anger and then filled with love so that it can find its perfect place in the vase in the heart.

The love vase can only hold love to the extent that it has been repaired by healing the fragments of the wounded child (shown as red tiles). No matter how much love pours into your heart, it can only hold as much as has been repaired. The rest will spill out through the unfinished sections of the vase (shown spilling over the top of the complete section).

Kryon through David Brown brings to you new healing energies, the magical healing energies of Kryon, and these energies are designed to flow through any issue and any problem and release you from any kind of bondage, blockage and thought pattern that doesn't work for you anymore. These energies are designed to heal the wounded child and flow through into your hard-wiring. You are hard wired from between conception and birth when you picked up exactly what your mother was feeling and these energies will flow through this gestation period into your karma and into your past lives from where you establish this lifetime.

All of those that are touched by the Kryon energy will step into a new world and will be held by the Kryon energy; you are all family for you are one consciousness and the golden cup of light of Kryon vibrates between your cells and your DNA and you will be held in safety, in love and security.

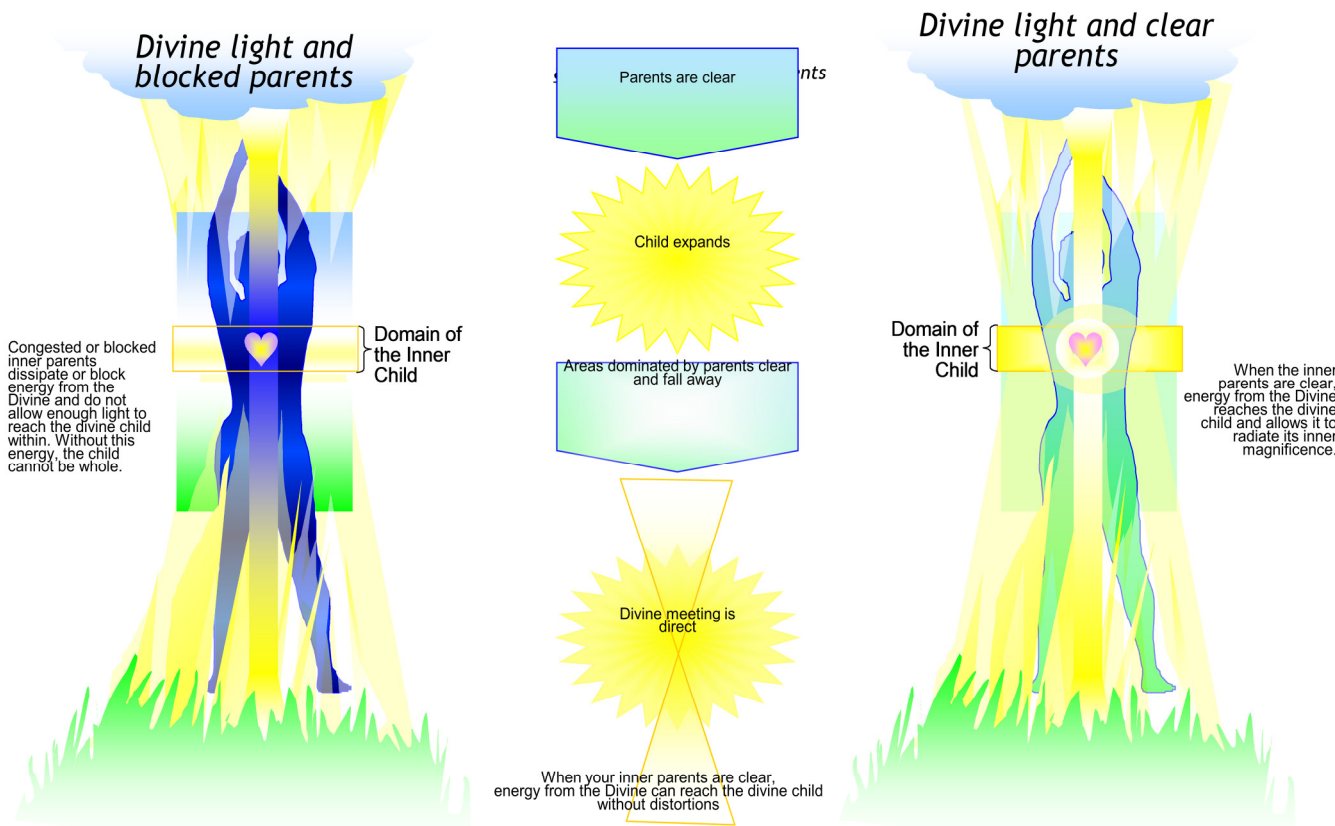

Figure 7: When your inner parents are clear, energy from the Divine can reach the divine child without distortions.

Congested or blocked inner parents dissipate or block energy from the Divine, and do not allow enough light to reach the divine child within. Without this energy, the child cannot be whole (Left figure)

When the inner parents are clear, energy from the Divine reaches the divine child and allows it to radiate its inner magnificence (Right figure)
